

Call for Chapter Contributions:

Book Title: Themes Talking Western Philosophy in Volumes

Series Editor: Professor Lawrence Ogbo Ugwuanyi

Aim of the Book : To locate and discuss some philosophers of western tradition that would normally occupy spaces in curriculum of studies in the west and beyond and present a study of their ideas in a manner that can be very informative and valuable to undergraduates of philosophy.

Method: First State the central problems that the philosopher in question set out to solve and how or whether it emanates from an existing tradition before the philosopher. Secondly, state the books and writings through which the philosopher attempted to address the problems and Summarise/Review of the books or salient aspects of the writings of the philosopher that addressed the problem with an updated account of criticisms and scholarship on them. Thirdly, provide a critical study of the ideas of the philosopher and how or whether the attempted problems have been solved or whether it persists in philosophy. Finally state the universal benefit of engaging these ideas and any gain it may have for an African student of philosophy and what the student would lose by not engaging these ideas.

Reference Style: Latest MLA version. Volume 6000- 8000 words.
